Scopellariae Herba (SH) is a traditional Chinese herb medicine that has been used to treat several diseases, including cancers, cardiovascular diseases, hepatoprotective diseases, immune-related diseases, skin diseases, and nervous system diseases, for thousands of years. Due to its extensive pharmacological activities, its therapeutic effects and its potential health benefits have been widely researched. This review is focused on the therapeutic effects and its potential health benefits of SH. In this review, we mainly searched the databases of PubMed, Google Scholar, and Web of Science. We also reviewed the literature cited in the relevant published papers.The results showed that SH might exert anticancer, anti-inflammatory, antioxidant, antiviral, antimicrobial, cardioprotective, hepatoprotective, immunomodulatory, anorexic, antidiabetic, antibacterial, and vasorelaxant effects. The quality of the included experimental studies was varied. Although many chemical studies have been conducted to identify its active ingredients, the current experimental data are inadequate and more clinical trials are needed to verify its efficacy and safety. Further investigations to evaluate the underlying mechanisms of therapeutic effects and to search for novel active ingredients from SH are warranted.Q: How to calculate CTR (Click through Rate) by AdUnit ID? I have a web page that has a link to various Google Ad Units. I would like to determine the CTR of the Ad Unit. The only information I have is that the Ad Unit has a unique ID. Is there any way to find the CTR based on this ID? A: As we discussed in the comments: in Google AdSense, there is no way to see the clickthrough rate of an ad unit unless you sign up for our KPI service. You can always create a custom report of the clicks on your 3da54e8ca3
