I get the json from the file and then I make it a java object but the objects I get are not type byte[]. The objects are of type String. The question is, how can I convert a string of bytes in the json file to an array of bytes? This is my code: public static JSONObject fgetjson(File file) { JSONObject json = new JSONObject(); try { BufferedReader reader = new BufferedReader(new FileReader(file)); StringBuilder sb = new StringBuilder(); String line = null; while ((line = reader.readLine()) != null) { sb.append(line); } String text = sb.toString(); json = (JSONObject)new JSONTokener(text).nextValue(); } catch (FileNotFoundException ex) { Logger.getLogger(Program.class.getName()).log(Level.SEVERE, null, ex); } catch (IOException ex) {
